The build- best to be upon the watch for all such guning in which she has resided has been as carefully barricaded and guarded by patrols every night as if it was a fortress in the midst of sormies, and this simply and solely from fear of a riving among the slaves. Sleep was banished through apprehension that each nap would be their last, and no family in the vicinity felt secure. The consequences of such a life upon this lady we have stated.

Upon her way to the North she passe through Memphus, and stopped with acquaintances. Here she heard the most astonishing tories of the "reign of terror" in the North, and was earnestly begged not to risk her life by coming north of the Ohio river. So strong were those remonstrances, that the cooded to dig his ditch or mo. $ 10 on the inlady actually feared to come to Uleveland, and made arrangements to go to the aprings in the interior of Tennessee, but finally resolved to risk the journey. Upon the bost to Cincinnati were a very large number of Northern sojourners like berself, who were ficeing to the North. As the boat neared Cencionati, the glorious Stars and Stripes burst upon the view of the passengers, the first Union Rog which the tady had seen for sight months. Letcher holds possession of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. There are comparatively few fighting men in the Western portion of the State, and so long as the above road can transport thousands of troops daily from the Eastern'and secession portion of the State. these few can make but little stand against the Governor and the force which he can and will bring to bear to enforce his daman ds. Same even of the troops of Western Virginia, which have been counted upon for the Union, must not be relied upon, as a secessionist told these gentlemen of certain bodies of troops which were safe for their side. If the Federal Covernment could occupy and hold the Baltimore & Ohio Road through its entire length, then we might feel secure regarding all that part of the State west of the mountains, but until that is done, we must made known through the Department of not hope too much. The Topography of Cairo.

Cairo is situated on the extreme southern point of Illinois, which, in dry weather and low water, is dry enough for a town, but at nigh water, m in the present case, the surface of the river is eight or ten feet above the level of the town,, which is protected by levees ronning several miles along the bank of each river. This leves is somelify test above low water mark, and this to us is a ready-made breastwork, perfe tly detensible from a direct fire from the river. Nothing can be injured except from shell - and two can play at that game. North of Cairo several miles, reaching from river to river, is an interminable gwamp, passable only by the Illinois Central Railroad. And this road is well guarded .-Cairo, then, is an isolated dry spot, and at all the available landing places Major J. D. Webster has planted batteries, well entreuched and supported, so that the channels of both rivers and their confluence are commanded, and the batteries are so connected that they can rally instantly to each other's support.

A New Court. - Thurcher's comet can now be seen with the naked eye. It is situated in the quadrangle of the "Great Bear," and near the brightest of the four stars. To the eye it has only a hazy appearance at present. A writer says "it moves rapidly from the northeast and in a lew days will be complicuous as a flaming sword from the north advancing into the Southern skies."
